

At the Cinema

Last Sunday, Anna and her dad were at the cinema. They went to watch a film. It was called “Jurassic World”. There were a lot of people who wanted to buy tickets but they still waited patiently in the queue. They were happy because they could watch the film.

When they were waiting, they suddenly heard a boy crying. Anna said to Dad, “The boy is crying loudly. I think he has lost his balloon.” Dad replied, “Let’s give the balloon to the boy.”

Then Anna picked up the balloon and went to the boy. Anna asked, “Is this your balloon?” The boy said, “Yes. Thank you very much.”

Anna asked, “Why are you crying?” He replied, “Because the two boys are playing tricks on me. They threw my balloon away, so I am very upset.” Anna learnt that we should not play tricks on others.

In the end, Anna had a good time watching the film.