

5A Abby Lai Yat Lamm (14)

How to be good Child?

It is important for a child to behave well at home and in public places.

At home, we should respect our parents. Sometimes, we should help them with the housework. For example, we can help them wash the dishes, sweep the floor, feed the pet and so on. We should get on well with our brothers and sisters. We should share our toys and snacks with them. We shouldn't quarrel or fight with one another. We should be nice to our grandparents. We should talk to them politely and patiently. We should not talk to them loudly.

In public places, we should also behave well. We should wait patiently at the bus stop. We shouldn't eat noisily. We should eat quietly. We should speak politely to the waiters. At school, we should arrive on the time. We should be polite to the teachers. We shouldn't laugh at our classmates. We should get on with one another. Finally, we should learn how to be polite. For example, when someone helps us, we should say 'thank you' to him or her. When we hurt someone, we should say 'sorry' to him or her. It is very easy to be a good child. Let's be good children.